

Bowling Green State University

FACULTY VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT
College of Arts & Sciences

Bowling Green State University is a tier-one, public university serving 19,000 students on two campuses in northwest Ohio. The University has nationally recognized programs and research in the natural and social sciences, education, arts, business, health and wellness, humanities and applied technologies. BGSU seeks talented individuals to join our community in Bowling Green, Ohio, recognized as one of the “Best College Towns of America.”

Position Summary

Assistant Professor, Department of Sociology
Full-time, tenure-track

Essential Duties, Tasks, and Responsibilities

- Teach both undergraduate and graduate level courses in the demography area as well as some general sociology courses
- Develop a research agenda that leads to publications in leading demography and sociology journals; actively seek external research support as appropriate
- Provide service to the department, college, and university as well as to the profession at a national level

Minimum Qualifications

- PhD in Sociology or related field (e.g., Demography) or the requirements for the degree satisfied by the start of employment (August 2022)
- Area of expertise is demography
- Experience as the instructor of record teaching demography or sociology at the undergraduate or graduate level
- Demonstrated research productivity through one or more published or in-press articles in national demography or sociology journals
- Evidence of ongoing research projects through presentations within the past three years at national conferences in demography or sociology

Salary & Benefits

Competitive and commensurate with peer institution levels for rank and position in keeping with candidate's experience and credentials. Full benefits package available.

Expected Start Date: August 2022

Credentials Required for Application

- Cover letter
- Statements of teaching and research interests that include experience to date and describe goals for the future
- Curriculum vitae

- Statement on diversity in higher education that responds to this prompt: Is there a way you envision diversity and inclusion playing a role in this position? Please explain your answer.
- Writing sample that presents and answers a research question (e.g., a dissertation chapter, working paper, or published or in-press academic journal article)
- Names and contact information of three professional referees who will provide a current (dated within the past year) letter of reference
- Transcript showing highest degree earned (official transcripts required for employment)

Application Process:

For a complete job description and instructions on how to apply for this position visit <https://bgsu.hiretouch.com/job-details-?jobID=6032&job=assistant-professor-sociology> or contact the Office of Human Resources, BGSU. In compliance with the ADA Amendments Act (ADAAA), if you have a disability and would like to request an accommodation in order to apply for a position with Bowling Green State University, please call 419-372-8421.

Application Deadline: Applications must be received by midnight EDT on March 14th.

Further Information:

For additional information, please contact Karen Benjamin Guzzo, Search Committee Chair, Department of Sociology, Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, OH 43403 kguzzo@bgsu.edu

BGSU policy requires finalists to authorize and pass a background investigation prior to receiving an offer of employment.

Bowling Green State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Educator and Employer. We are committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive environment and strongly encourage applications from women, minorities, veterans, and individuals with disabilities regardless of age, gender identity, genetic information, religion, or sexual orientation.

Information about BGSU and Department

Bowling Green State University is a residential campus located in northwest Ohio approximately 20 miles south of the diverse city of Toledo, Ohio and 70 miles from Ann Arbor, Michigan and the Detroit airport. BGSU offers more than 200 undergraduate majors and programs, 47 master's degree programs, and 17 doctoral degree programs. U.S. News and World Report names BGSU as one of the top public universities nationwide with a strong commitment to first-year programs that lead to success. Approximately 20,000 students (including 2900 graduate students) attend BGSU. Over 17% of our students identify as persons of color, and nearly 5% are international students. Of BGSU's 1,200 faculty members, 13% identify as persons of color, and 4% hail from different countries. The Division of Diversity and Belonging coordinates affinity groups for faculty and staff who identify as persons of color, Latinx, LGBTQ+, and as persons with disabilities. The University is fully accredited by the Higher Learning Commission and is a member of the North Central Association. For more information, please visit: www.bgsu.edu.

The Department of Sociology at BGSU enjoys a nationally ranked doctoral program that offers specializations in family, criminology, and social psychology in addition to demography. The department includes 17 faculty members and about 40 graduate students. Our undergraduate program reaches beyond our majors to engage the wider student body. The faculty are committed to excellence in teaching and research. Faculty regularly serve as mentors for McNair Scholars and are active in Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion work on campus and the broader community. Faculty regularly collaborate on research projects, and several have external grant support for their work from funders such as NIH, NIJ, and NSF. BGSU is home to the Center for Family and Demographic Research and the National Center for Family and Marriage Research. For more information, visit our web site:

<http://www.bgsu.edu/arts-and-sciences/sociology.html>

SHORT ADVERTISEMENT

Department of Sociology, Assistant Professor (Demography area)

Details: The Department of Sociology invites applications for a tenure-track position in the area of demography. Starting date is August 2022. The department has an undergraduate minor in demographic studies and a strong doctoral program with several faculty in the area. The Department is also home to the Center for Family and Demographic Research and the National Center for Family and Marriage Research.

Qualifications: PhD in Sociology or related field (e.g., Demography) or the requirements for the degree satisfied by the start of employment (August 2022); Area of expertise is demography; Experience as the instructor of record teaching demography or sociology at the undergraduate or graduate level; Demonstrated research productivity through one or more published or in-press articles in national demography or sociology journals; Evidence of ongoing research projects through presentations within the past three years at national conferences in demography or sociology.

Application: For an application to be considered complete, submit a letter of application, statements of teaching and research interests that include experience to date and goals for the future, full curriculum vitae, a statement on diversity in higher education that responds to this prompt: Is there a way you envision diversity and inclusion playing a role in this position? Please explain your answer, names and contact information of three professional referees who will provide a current (dated within the past year) letter of reference, a writing sample that presents and answers a research question (e.g., a dissertation chapter, working paper, or published or in-press academic journal article), and a transcript showing highest degree earned.

For a complete job description and instructions on how to apply for this position, visit <https://bgsu.hiretouch.com/>. If you have a disability and would like to request an accommodation in order to apply for a position with Bowling Green State University, please call 419-372-8421. Background check and official transcripts required for employment.

BGSU is an AA/EEO/Vet employer dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse and pluralistic faculty and staff committed to teaching and working in a diverse environment. We encourage applications from women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities regardless of age, gender identity, genetic information, religion, or sexual orientation. Applications must be received by midnight EDT on March 14th.