

PROFILE SUMMARY OF LATIFAT D. G. IBISOMI, PhD

I hold a PhD in Demography and Population Studies, MSc (Med) in Epidemiology & Biostatistics, MSc in Population Studies, and a BSc (Hons) in Statistics. I also hold certifications in many specialized population, health, development, and management training programmes. Since 1988, I have pursued a career in the population and public health fields and thus have considerable experience on issues in the two fields, especially in sub-Saharan Africa (having lived and worked in the Western, Eastern and Southern regions of the continent). I am currently an Associate Professor and Head of the Epidemiology & Biostatistics division at the School of Public Health, University of the Witwatersrand (Wits), Adjunct Research Fellow of the Nigerian Institute of Medical Research (NIMR), a member of the Global Accrediting Body (GAB) for the Training Programs in Epidemiology and Public Health Interventions Network (TEPHINET), a member of the research committee of the Ekurhuleni Health District, Gauteng Province, South Africa, and a Director at the BAMBISHO Health and Demographic Surveillance node in Rustenburg, South Africa. I am an adviser on the WHO's TDR Implementation Research core competency framework and in the development of online Implementation Research course content. In addition, I am a member of the Global Advisory Group for the National Institute of Health and Care Research project (NIHR156363) on Nurturing the resilience of mobile youth to navigate health and wellbeing crises in Southern Africa from 2024 to date. Prior to my current employment, I worked in government, international and research institutions (including the National Population Commission, Nigeria; UNICEF, Nigeria; the African Population and Health Research Centre (APHRC), Kenya), and the Wits Graduate Programme in Demography and Population Studies.

My research focus is on promoting the sexual and reproductive health (SRH), and well-being of the African populations, particularly, the maternal, newborn and child health (MNCH) continuum using both quantitative and qualitative methodologies. My work is notable in adolescent, maternal & child health issues (including menstrual management, family planning, gender-based violence, unsafe abortion, preconception care, antenatal, delivery including management of basic emergency obstetric and newborn care complications, post-natal care, vaccination, breastfeeding, diarrhea and other childhood morbidities and mortality) and HIV; evaluation of the continental SRHR framework in nine African Countries; and the assessment of policy and systems frameworks for the bi-directional linkage of SRH and HIV in Kenya and Lesotho. I was a member of the task force on the ENGAGE<sup>1</sup> project, which sought to reposition family planning in Kenya. I was involved in the study on HIV incidence and related sexual behaviour practices among pregnant women at Chris Hani Baragwanath Hospital, Johannesburg; co-investigated a migration, urbanization, and health project at the Agincourt HDSS; and co-investigated as well as provided leadership for the needs assessment, baseline, mid-term, and summative evaluations as well as provided technical oversight, on a SRHR-HIV project focusing on adolescents and young people, sex workers and migrants in six southern Africa countries. I have published 69 peer-reviewed, eight conference reviewed, and nine other non-peer reviewed papers, while six others are under review for publication. I have over 80 oral and posters presentations at local and international conferences/forums. I was a recipient of the Faculty of Health Sciences, University of the Witwatersrand's award for dedication and achievement in research in 2016 and 2018.

My research has contributed to the quantification and understanding of fertility preferences and behaviour; child health; socio-economic and cultural determinants of contraceptive behaviour; youth and adolescent's reproductive health; linkage between HIV and SRH, SRH access and services for migrants; evaluation of SRH initiatives, sexual health of older adults and demographic dynamics. Since 2015, I have been contributing increasingly to implementation and quality improvement sciences curriculum development, teaching, and research. I have also been involved in the application of implementation and quality improvement science methodologies to a broad range of health research. My future research interest is in applying implementation and quality improvement sciences to SRH research.

I teach and coordinate a broad range of courses, including Epidemiology, Biostatistics, Computing, Research Methodologies, and curriculum development as well as programme reviews of both undergraduate and graduate programmes at Departmental, School and Faculty levels. I have supervised four PhD, 43 master's and one honours research students to completion, and I am currently supervising nine master's and two PhD students. I have served as examiner for 10 PhD theses and 22 master's research work. I also served as the external examiner for the Master's in Public Health degree's core examination on Epidemiology & Biostatistics at the University of Pretoria, South Africa from 2019 - 2024. In addition, I mentor and coach past and current students, junior faculty, and other associates on academic and professional development issues. I am the principal investigator for an ongoing WHO/TDR post-graduate (MSc & PhD) training grants in Implementation Science. This grant and the SRHR-HIV funding in six Southern Africa countries, have funded 66 students (fully funded 58 MSc and four PhDs and provided partial funding for three MSc and one PhD students). The TDR grant also funded a professional development course in Project Management for more than 250 students and staff of the Wits School of Public Health between 2016 and 2024.

I serve/have served on numerous interview panels and on a number of Committees at various times at the Wits School of Public Health and Faculty of Health Sciences including Teaching and Learning, Transformation, Postgraduate Students' Research, Bachelor of Health Sciences, Re-admission, Plagiarism, ICT, Library, Career Development and Staffing & Promotion Committees. I am a member of six professional associations, an editorial board member of a Journal, an editorial advisory board member for another,

Associate Editor for one, and reviewer for twelve others. I have convened sessions at conferences, participated in reviewing conference submissions, book chapters and grant applications for various organisations. I have also chaired and been discussant at several local and international conferences. At the community level, I have been a volunteer with the Wits Hospice since 2013.

My broad academic qualifications, backed by my rich blend of field, research, classroom and management experiences, have been particularly useful in my lectures and other interactions with students. My training has provided me with tools that I apply in the conduct, analysis, and supervision of research work. My coordination; supervision, mentoring, coaching and facilitation; resource management; as well as representation and networking skills, have also been handy in the discharge of my many varied and growing administrative and managerial responsibilities.

Latifat D. G. Ibisomi

My research focus is on promoting sexual and reproductive health (SRH), and well-being. I have designed, implemented, supervised and managed several research studies, published research articles, monitored and evaluated research projects, as well as conducted advocacy work on sexual and reproductive health and rights (SRHR) issues of different segments of the African population using both quantitative and qualitative methodologies. In addition, I have been contributing increasingly to Implementation and Quality Improvement science research since 2015 and applying their methodologies to a broad range of health issues. This section highlights my research publications; awards and grants obtained; project experiences; presentations at conferences, workshops, and other forums as well as short courses and trainings that I have attended.

Academic Citizenship and Service record of Latifat D. G. Ibisomi

This section highlights the services that I have rendered to the University, the Population and Public Health disciplines and the community including administrative services and committee memberships at faculty and school levels; editorial services to 15 journals; grants and conference reviews for foundations and professional bodies. The details are as follows:

SERVICE TO THE UNIVERSITY

ADMINISTRATIVE

2023 - HEAD, DIVISION OF EPIDEMIOLOGY & BIostatISTICS
2014-2022 ACADEMIC COORDINATOR, MSc EPIDEMIOLOGY PROGRAMME

Some of the activities that I undertake as the holder of this position include:

- leading the selection, admission and orientation processes for new students
- managing and coordinating all academic-related activities (including academic calendar, examination and assessment procedures, appointment of examiners, and field attachment for students)
- serving as contact person on student matters
- writing references for students
- leading the assessment of external candidates for short courses
- providing support to students (both academic and well-being)
- helping with scholarships and liaising with networks locally and internationally
- overseeing preparation of the Division's operational budget
- overseeing marketing and publicity of the MSc Programme.

OTHERS

2012 – Date Coordinator, Students' Orientation
2018 – 2020 SPH Lead, creation of BHSc (Hons) in Public Health degree programme
2016 – 2017 SPH Lead, creation of Public Health specialization track for the Bachelor of Health Sciences (BHSc) degree programme
2011 – 2013 Coordinator, DPS Master's Programme
2011 – 2013 Coordinator Master's Research Report

COMMITTEES MEMBERSHIP

FACULTY OF HEALTH SCIENCES

2015 – 24 Member, Bachelor of Health Sciences Committee
2015 – 20 Member, Re-admission Committee
2016 – 21 Member, PhD Protocol Assessment Group

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH

2021 - Date Ex officio Member (representing the Staffing & Promotion Committee), Career Development Committee
2018 - 24 Member, Postgraduate Student Research Committee

2017 - 24	Deputy Chair, Staffing and Promotion Committee
2014 – 24	Member, Teaching and Learning Committee
2014 – 23	Chair, MSc Protocol Assessment Group, School of Public Health
2014 – 20	Member, ICT Committee
2015 – 19	Member, PhD Students' Selection Committee

Teaching Records

1. Introduction

The purpose of this teaching records is to document my teaching, responsibilities, accomplishments, and experiences as a teacher. The document highlights my teaching journey since I started full time academic work at Wits in January 2011. The curriculum development, supervision, examination, and mentoring activities that I have been involved in over the past years are also highlighted. A key point of significance, interest, fulfilment and rewarding experience through my teaching journey has been my ability to traverse the vast fields of population and public health through the complementarity of the broad range of courses that I have coordinated and taught:

- from Demographic Methods that lay the foundation for fieldwork/data collection operations and estimation of population indicators from both perfect and less perfect data,
- to Population Studies that examines how the demographic/population indicators relate to social-economic, environmental and health among other determinants,
- to Epidemiology that extends Population Studies' realm to the control of identified risk factors of diseases and other health related conditions and, finally,
- to Implementation and quality improvement sciences that seek to identify and remove bottlenecks in the implementation and upscaling of proven health interventions to improve the health and well-being of the population.

2. Teaching

2.1. Teaching responsibilities

Table 1 shows the courses that I have taught alone, coordinated and co-coordinated. Other courses that I participated in their teaching are listed thereafter.

Table 1: Courses solely taught, coordinated and co-coordinated

Year	Programme	Course Title	Level of teaching	Length of Course
2019-25	MSc Epidemiology, School of Public Health	Quality Improvement Science	Master's	2 Weeks
2016-18		Implementation Science II	Master's & PhD	2 Weeks
2014-17		Epidemiology for Health Researchers I	Master's	1 Week
2015		Data Collection and Capture	Master's	1 Week
2014 - 25		Public Health Orientation	Master's	1 Week

2011		Intermediate Demographic Methods	Master's	1 Week
2010		Introduction to Demographic Methods	Master's	1 Week
2011-12	Demography & Population Studies, School of Social Sciences	Basic Demographic Methods	Honours & Master's	One semester
2012		Fertility Gender and Reproductive Health	Honours	One semester
2013		Introduction to Demography and Population Studies	Honours & Master's	One semester
2013		Demography of Fertility and Reproduction	Honours & Master's	One semester
2013		Advanced Demographic Methods	Master's	One semester
2012		Demography and Development	300 level Undergraduate	One semester

I have also been involved in the teaching of/in the following undergraduate and postgraduate courses / programmes in the School of Public Health and Faculty of Health Sciences:

1. Implementation Science I (2028 – 2023)
2. BHSc (Hons) Research Methods (2023)
3. Public Health II (2019-20)
4. Epidemiology for Health Researchers I (2011-2013, 2018-2025)
5. Epidemiology for Health Researchers II (2014 – 2025)
6. Research Protocol Development (2014 – 2025)
7. Health Measurement I (2016)
8. Monitoring and Evaluation (2015)
9. Biostatistics for Health Researcher I (2015)
10. Introduction to Biostatistics in Computing (2015, 2018)
11. School's inter-disciplinary PhD Programme (2013, 2016, 2017)
12. Second Joint Advanced Seminar for CARTA<sup>3</sup> PhD Fellows (2012-2019)
13. Seminar on Demography for Public/Community Health Registrars (2014, 2017)
14. Faculty of Health Sciences Statistical Support Programme (2017)

and the following 200 level undergraduate course at the School of Social Sciences

15. Contemporary Social Issues in Southern Africa II (2012)

<sup>3</sup> Consortium for Advance Research Training in Africa - an initiative of nine African Universities, four African research institutes and select northern partners. It offers an innovative model for doctoral training in SSA to strengthen the capacity of participating institutions to conduct and lead internationally competitive research

2.2. Other teaching related activities

1. Teaching Epidemiology & Biostatistics at the Médecins Sans Frontières (MSF), Belgium, Feb/Mar 2024 -25. Part of a MoA with the Wits School of Public Health.
2. Two-day Implementation Science training for Implementing Partners under the D43 Fogarty grant. March 2020
3. UNC-Wits Adolescent HIV Prevention and Treatment Implementation Science Alliance (AHISA) Implementation Science Training. Jan 2018
4. Coordination of Neglected Tropical Diseases (NTD) seminar series (2017-2019, 2025)
5. Coordination of Project Management Workshop (2016 -22)
6. Discipline Lead, Implementation Science (2017-18). As IS discipline head, I oversee the content and delivery of all IS courses; ensure that there are no omissions of important concepts/areas and minimise overlap in the discipline continuum; internal validation of assessments; analysis of students' performance in assessments; strategic collaborations with and effective communication to all relevant stakeholders in respect of IS.
7. Discipline Lead, Epidemiology (2016-17): Same responsibilities as under item 5 immediately above.
8. Coordination and facilitation of DPS Support Seminars. These include proposal development; academic writing; computer applications I and II; qualitative research methods; writing literature review; using Endnote and research update meetings (RUM<sup>4</sup>).
9. Vetting abstracts sent out by the students and presentations to be made to external audience.
10. Facilitation of writing retreats to convert conference presentations/on-going research writings into journal papers.

<sup>4</sup> The objectives of RUM include: (1) to monitor MA and PhD students' progress on their research work, (2) for rehearsing presentations that will be made at external forums, (3) to equip students with oral skills and confidence to address different types of audience, and (4) to enable students communicate their work.

3. Supervision of Postgraduate research work

I have supervised one Honours, 43 MA/MSc and four PhD students to completion from 2011 to date while I currently supervise nine MSc and two PhD students. The details are presented in Table 2:

Table 2: Supervision of higher degrees

Year	Name of Student	Title of Research	Status
Honours
2014	Tichaona Mhembere	Association between exposure to Anti-Retroviral Treatment and Diabetes Mellitus in PLHIV in Deipsloot, 2012 (Monash University, South Africa)	Completed 2014
MSc/MA
2024	Eustace Bugase	Acceptability of the RTS,S Malaria Vaccine among Healthcare Workers in the Kassena Nankana Municipality, Ghana.
	Matsitso Montsi	Implementation Fidelity of Contact Tracing Guidelines for Multi-Drug-Resistant Tuberculosis by Health Care Providers in Lesotho 2025
	Suleiman Yusuf	Barriers to, and Facilitators of Private Healthcare Providers' Participation in the Public-Private Mix for Tuberculosis Control in Bauchi, Nigeria, 2024-2025.

I also offered/offer consultation and guidance to all the students under the WHO/TDR scholarship scheme and other students who were/are not under my direct supervision. I work with individual students in carrying out their research work. I encourage the students that I supervise to read and critique at least one journal article every week and also to look through samples of previous research reports written by students from the school and elsewhere, to familiarise themselves with research language and the layout of the report. Further, I work with students on conference papers and journal publications.

4. Examination of Master's and PhD students' research work:

5. Curriculum/Course development

I have led, organized, facilitated, and participated in curriculum and programme reviews of undergraduate and graduate programmes at various times at Departmental, School and Faculty levels including:

- Led curriculum revision of the MSc Epidemiology Programme to align with the HEQSF credits (2023-24)
- co-developing a postgraduate diploma curriculum in medical humanitarian action for senior-level managers of Médecins Sans Frontières (MSF), also known as Doctors Without Borders and other similar organizations.
- leading the revision of the curriculum of the six fields of study under the MSc Epidemiology programme (2022 – 2023).
- being the lead person for the School of Public Health in creating the BHSc (Hons) degree programme (2019-2020)

- being the lead person for the School of Public Health in creating a Public Health stream in the newly restructured BHSc degree (2016-17)
- leading in the alignment of the MSc Epidemiology curriculum with the Higher Education Qualification Sub-Framework (HEQSF) requirements in 2015
- participating in the curriculum development for the Implementation Science field of study in 2014
- developing a competence level short course on Professional Studies in Population, Monitoring and Evaluation under the DPS Programme in 2013. The target audience for the course is mid-level public and non-public officers and managers working on issues related to population, health and development from NGOs, Government Departments and the Private sector. The course was designed to bridge the skills gap in Demography and Population Studies in South Africa taking cognisance of the preferred part time studying model of the population. The course comprised four units spread across one calendar year (Unit 1: Introduction to Demography and Population Studies; Unit 2: Basic Demographic, Monitoring and Evaluation Methods; Unit 3: Basic social science research methods, and Unit 4: Population, Development and Policy Analysis)
- leading and facilitating a multi-stakeholder curriculum development workshop for the DPS Programme in August 2011. As a result of the workshop, I was involved in designing a new module on Social Statistics for Demographic Survey and Analysis to address the statistics and research methodology needs of DPS students
- participating in the Wits School of Public Health's Curriculum Review in 2011.

6. Invitation to teach/examine at other institutions

School of Health Systems and Public Health, Faculty of Health Sciences, University of Pretoria

External Examiner, Masters in Public Health degree's core exam on Epidemiology & Biostatistics, 2019 – 2024.

Monash University, South Africa

Facilitator, Health, Law and Ethics (300 level Bachelor of Public Health course) 2014.
